ELKS' MINSTREL AT ELKINS IS A GREAT SUCCESS

Theater is Packed Overflowing at Two Performances of the Show.

ELKINS, Mar. 4.—Elkins lodge No. 1,135 Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks presented its annual minstrel performance at the Grand theater on Wednesday and Thursday nights to audiences which packed the theater to overflowing. The show was staged under the direction of W. R. Pattie, of Lexington, Ky. Elkins lodge of Elks is one of the few lodges in the country owning a mounted elk killed by members of the lodge. The monster mounted elk which adorns the Elks lodge room, and which is conspicuous on all public occasions, was killed by members of the order several years ago when the lodge chartered a special train and went elk hunting.
 Announcement is made that a subscription dance will be held in Nathan hall Tuesday night, March 7, when the music will be furnished by Wright's original saxophone orchestra of Columbus, O.

An interesting social feature of the week was the leap year dance given by the ladies. Fifty couples were present and the ladies did all the honors, serving an elaborate luncheon, escorting the gentlemen to and from their homes and paying them every possible attention.

Miss Martha MacVean held the last of a series of dances in Nathan hall last night. Miss MacVean will leave shortly for her home in Pittsburg to spend some time.

The Beverly Tea was entertained at the home of Mrs. Alba Collet on High street Thursday afternoon.

February was a mighty slack month in the marriage line in Randolph county, the records of County Clerk Thaddeus Pritt showing that only five marriage licenses were issued in the county during the month.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist church held its annual chicken supper in the dining rooms of the church Thursday night. Three hundred suppers were served by the ladies.

A recital was given Monday night by the department of expression of Davis and Elkins College under the direction of Miss Bertha May Johns, head of that department.

The Rev. E. B. Turner, of Clarksburg, representing the Synod of West Virginia, and the Rev. D. P. McGee of Lewisburg, representing the Synod of West Virginia, met here this week in conference with the Rev. Frederick H. Barron, pastor of the Davis Memorial church and President James E. Allen, of Davis and Elkins College with a view to arranging and enlarging the system of Christian education for the Presbyterians of West Virginia. At the present time there are three Presbyterian educational institutions in the state, two of which are located at Lewisburg, under the control of the presbytery of Greenbrier, and the third, Davis and Elkins College—under the joint control of the two presbyteries. There is some talk of organizing a preparatory school for both sexes in the presbytery of Parkersburg, and it was this and other matters that the committee considered at the meeting here this week.

Mrs. G. L. Pierce was the guest this week of her sister, Mrs. Gustavus Warfield, Jr. Mrs. Pierce has gone to Bower to join her husband, Dr. Pierce who has been located at Belington, but is moving to Bower.

The Hon. M. H. King, candidate for the Republican nomination for secretary of state, was at Buckhannon several days during the week.

HOPEWELL SPRINGS LIKE MAGIC FROM ASHES OF BIG FIRE

Law and Order Has Sprung from Ruins of City Once Ruled by Debauch.

HOPEWELL, Va., Mar. 4.—Hopewell, the Du Pont "magic city," Virginia's "war baby," has beaten its own record in city building.

From a single wooden shanty to the fifth largest city in Virginia in five months, a wooden city, totally destroyed in five hours and rebuilt in five weeks, Hopewell is today in its efforts to secure an adequate and immediate system of government no less interesting than when law and order arose out of the chaos of its first building.

One year ago the land on which Hopewell is built was a neglected cornfield where, in 1865, Grant had his headquarters in one weather beaten little cottage when his army marched on Richmond. Then came the Du Pont plant, manufacturing gun cotton, with its thousands of workers.

Five months and Hopewell was a gigantic village, with a city's population of 30,000 largely foreigners, 500 acres of shanties, stores, markets, theaters, rooming houses, pool halls and cabarets buddled together, all built of wood and highly inflammable.

There was no system of government no real laws and no regular police. A large element was the floating population, who felt no responsibility for the welfare of the place. Everybody had too much money. The town was wide open. Whiskey, women and gamblers were everywhere.

A veritable underworld—Hopewell was openly wicked and unabashed. Its gray white way extended to the outskirts of the town. Graft was the keynote of much of the business enterprise.

In August, 1915, an investigation of Hopewell was made by a newspaper and the findings reported to Commonwealth's Attorney Wise, of Richmond, who undertook to remedy conditions in the powder town under the personal direction of Governor Stuart.

On December 9 fire completed what the state authorities had commenced. Starting from a small blaze in a Greek restaurant, the fire leaped from one wooden structure to another, while its helpless inhabitants looked on, and in five hours Hopewell was again a barren waste of ruins, except for an occasional building that, by a freak of wind, escaped destruction.

Today Hopewell is a substantial city in the making, of brick and concrete, steel and iron, in place of the former firetraps.

While the fire yet raged men who had lost thousands in buildings and supplies telegraphed to the nearest cities for building materials. The Norfolk and Western depot was rebuilt in forty-eight hours. Before daybreak on the day following the fire the activity of rebuilding began. In every instance the buildings put up are of a permanent character.

Hopewell is not a city at present. Six months ago an effort was made to prepare a petition for incorporation. A canvass of residents was made and only two men were found who could qualify to sign the petition. The names of twenty men who have lived in the community for twelve months were necessary to be affixed to the document before it could be presented. Out of a population of 30,000 Hopewell had only two voters. But the town government will be organized.

Hopewell is now dry. The strongest foe which soldiers who took charge of the town after the fire had to combat were the legions of whiskey jugs and barrels which sought entrance from every direction. Special guards of picked patrols were stationed along the borders of the town. Every team or messenger was halted and his person and effects examined. The army of jugs being routed, the enemy took to the river, hoping to enter by way of City Point. Thousands of gallons of whiskey were captured and poured into the Du Pont sewers.

Hopewell's population is largely foreign. Its streets echo with a dozen languages. Greeks and Italians predominate. It is marked pro-ally. No Germans or Austrians are employed in the works.

A business men's club, chamber of commerce, Young Men's Christian Association, a local military company, five churches and a $5,000 Jewish synagogue are examples of Hopewell's plans for a permanent city. Three daily newspapers of the town are solidly lined up to support law and order and by a scheme of advertising to promote daily evangelical meetings until the churches shall be completed for services.

Hopewell's newly organized banks, combined with the banks of Petersburg, Va., have been swamped under the immense amount of money put into circulation following the semi-monthly pay days at the Du Pont works, each $800,000. Under a system newly introduced a portion of the employees will be paid each day, in order to relieve the congestion at the banks and to prevent the robberies which frequently occurred for several days following the former dates of semi-monthly payments.

PREACHER TO TAKE A HIKE

Billy Sunday Convert Wants to Follow in Footsteps of His Teacher.

PHILADELPHIA, Mar. 4.—Before William Roney Cook got religion, the principal occupation of his feet was in tapping marathons on brass rail rails. Now he will make a 10,000 mile tour of the country, hoofing every inch of the way to carry the gospel.

Cook is a Billy Sunday convert. He hit the trail one year ago when the evangelist conducted his big revival in this city. Soon thereafter, he declares, he was impelled with the longing to follow the footsteps of Sunday and carry the message of the Scriptures into the redlight districts and slums.

He will begin his long tramp in a few days and expects to be gone five years. His route will be southward through Washington and Atlanta to New Orleans and thence westward to southern California. He will work his way up the Pacific coast to Seattle and then start on his long trek back eastward.

When he leaves he will carry only a change of underwear and stockings, toilet article, a Bible and a very small amount of money. He expects to earn his board and lodging as he goes, by the sale of a booklet containing his favorite sermon, "The Wild Man."

Cook worked recently in the Du Pont powder mills below Wilmington, where he did missionary work among his fellow workers.

Baron Charles Beresford, famous British naval leader, who led in Parliament the fight for a monster British navy, is 70 years old.

Can't Lose Hair

Twenty Years from Today a Bald-headed Man Will Be an Unusual Sight.

One of the most prominent druggists of America made a statement a few weeks ago which has caused a great deal of discussion among scientists in the medical press.

He said: "If the new hair grower, Mildredina Hair Remedy, increases its sales as it has during the past year, it will be used by nearly every man, woman and child in America within eight years."

"When Mildredina Hair Remedy is used almost universally, dandruff will disappear and with its departure baldness, itching scalp, splitting hair and all scalp diseases will follow and will be a rarity." Sample sent for 10c to post page. Mail orders filled by Mildred Louise Co., Boston, Mass.

For sale by Farrell's Drug Store—Advertisement.

WEST UNION NEWS TOLD

In a Breezy Letter from Sunday Telegram's Correspondent at That Place.

WEST UNION, Mar. 4.—Some of those who were in Clarksburg the first of the week to see "The Birth of a Nation" were Misses Emma Shannon, Gladys Brown, Lillian Maxwell, of West Union, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Engstrom, Harold Engstrom, Hall Maxwell, Everett Sherwood, Joe Cahill, T. B. Forsberg, Mrs. R. L. Wick, Misses Martha Trough and Mildred Cahill, of Smithton; Mr. Griffin Taylor, of Morganville.

J. E. Trainer is looking over the oil fields in Oklahoma.

Mrs. Andrew Davison, of Harrisville, was here the last week to see her mother, Mrs. Deborah Kinney, who had the misfortune to fall recently and break her arm.
